IN MEMORIAM
MISS ESTELLENE P. WALKER

Estellene P. Walker was born in Virginia in 1911 and spent her early years in North Carolina and Tennessee. She received her undergraduate degree from the University of Tennessee and her B.S. in library science from Emory University in 1935. She served as Head of the County Department at the Lawson-McGhee Library in Knoxville, Tennessee, from 1935 until 1941 when she became Post Librarian at Fort Jackson, Columbia, South Carolina. During the last year of World War II, she was appointed Materials Supply Librarian with the Army Special Services in the European Theatre of Operations.

In 1946, Miss Walker assumed the position of Executive Secretary of the State Library Board (1946-1968) and then of State Librarian (1968-1979). Under her direction a small public library extension agency grew into the South Carolina State Library which serves State Government, libraries, the blind and physically handicapped, and the general public.

Miss Walker established the pattern of unified county library systems and led in the development of county-wide public library service for all forty-six counties. Her steady purpose and creative leadership resulted in a strong program of State Aid for public libraries, a massive increase in the book holdings of local libraries, more professional public librarians, better facilities for public libraries, the extension of library service to the blind and physically handicapped, creation of library service in state institutions, and the development of a statewide interlibrary loan network.

Miss Walker was active in the American, the Southeastern, and the South Carolina Library Associations. She served as president of the Association of State Libraries and of the South Carolina Library Association. She also served on the S. C. Committee for the Humanities and served a term as president of the local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons. Following her retirement, Miss Walker authored a history of public libraries, "So Good and Necessary a Work": The Public Library in South Carolina. She received the State Library's Distinguished Service Award in October of 1983. Miss Walker was listed in Who's Who in American Women and Who's Who in the South and Southwest.

For thirty-three years library service in South Carolina reflected Estellene Walker's leadership. Her influence will be felt for decades to come and the quality of life of all South Carolinians has been enhanced because of her work.

SELA TO BE HELD IN BILOXI

The Southeastern Library Association (SELA) will hold its biennial conference in Biloxi, Mississippi, at the Mississippi Gulf Coast Convention Center on October 15-20, 1984. Theme of the conference, which is being held jointly with the Mississippi Library Association, is "Fair Sailing in Biloxi." In addition to the regularly scheduled programs, the SELA conference will offer special events including presentation of the one-man play, "Oh Mr. Faulkner, Do You Write?" by John Maxwell and travel opportunities to New Orleans and the World's Fair.

For information on joining SELA, please refer to the membership application form and information list as follows. For additional copies of the SELA membership application form and information list, contact Anne Middleton, Reference Librarian, S. C. State Library at 758-3138.

STATE LIBRARIAN ELECTED TO SOLINET BOARD

During the annual membership meeting of the Southeastern Library Network, Betty E. Callaham was elected to a three-year term on the SOLINET Board of Trustees. Miss Callaham, Director of the South Carolina State Library, is currently completing a term on the OCLC Users Council and served as Chairman of the SOLINET Delegation to OCLC during 1983-84. South Carolina now has two representatives on the SOLINET Board of Trustees. Ken Toombs, Director of USC Libraries and one of the founders of SOLINET, was elected to the Board again in 1982. The Board members and Shirley Tarleton, delegate to the OCLC Users Council, welcome comments and questions from SOLINET/OCLC members. The next meeting of the SOLINET Board of Trustees will be June 13-14.

STATE LIBRARY TO PARTICIPATE IN NAME AUTHORITY PROJECT

Marjorie Mazur, Director of Technical Services, South Carolina State Library, will attend a two-week training session on name authorities at the Library of Congress from June 4 to 15. The program will focus on establishing and entering name authorities into an on-line authority file. Currently there are 28 members participating in the Name Authority Cooperative Project (NACO), primarily academic and federal agency libraries. Following the training session, South Carolina will be one of eight state libraries which are presently participating in the project.

SURVEY OF STATE LIBRARY INTERLIBRARY LOAN "NOT AVAILABLE" TITLES

By: John H. Landrum
Director of Reader Services

The enhancement of resource sharing including cooperative collection development and increased interlibrary loan among libraries is one of the major benefits to be derived from library networks. As the South Carolina Library Network develops, we may anticipate similar benefits in South Carolina. Since the State Library is so heavily committed to interlibrary loan, the impact of networking on interlibrary loan will be carefully monitored. While the Network Feasibility Study commissioned by the State Library in 1981 found most libraries in the state satisfied with the interlibrary loan service, especially that offered by the State Library, the fact remains the State Library is able to fill only 80% of the interlibrary loan title requests received. Of this 80%, approximately 70% represent titles available in the State Library's collection. The remaining 10% are titles borrowed by the State Library from the Thomas Cooper Library at the University of South Carolina. 20% of title requests are reported as being "not available" to the requesting library. Locations for these items are given only when the local libraries specifically ask either at the time the request is first submitted to the State Library or at a later date.

While it is highly probable the State Library will continue to operate its centralized interlibrary loan service, the staff recognizes the importance of attempting to reduce this 20% "not available" figure.

As a preliminary step in order to analyze the "not available" situation, a study was conducted of all titles declared "not available" by the State Library's Interlibrary Loan Service during February, 1984. Historically, February is one of the busiest months as far as State Library interlibrary loan activity is concerned. Of the 2,348 titles requested during February a total of 563 titles requested by the following types of libraries were declared "not available" for loan:

South Carolina academic libraries	24
South Carolina special libraries	8
South Carolina institutional libraries	10
Out-of-state libraries	34
South Carolina public libraries	414

TOTAL 490

Titles declared not available, locations requested by borrowing library 73

GRAND TOTAL 563

A detailed study was made of the 414 titles requested by South Carolina public libraries which were not available. Attempts were made to verify all titles on the OCLC data base. For titles which could not be verified, a "display holdings-region" command was sent. This command would indicate which OCLC member libraries in South Carolina, Georgia and North Carolina owned the title. The analysis can be divided into three major groups, and following are the results of the study:

	Number of Titles	% of Titles*
I. NOT VERIFIED IN OCLC	54	13%
II. DECLARED NOT AVAILABLE AT PRESENT -
LOCATED AT USC OR STATE LIBRARY
On order at State Library	12	2.8%
Non-circulating - State Library	7	1.6%
Non-circulating - USC	8	1.9%
Browsing collection - USC	8	1.9%
(Popular materials, State Library does not borrow)
In circulation at USC	66	15.9%
Substitute Requested	2	.5%

III. DECLARED NOT AVAILABLE - NO FURTHER ACTION TAKEN 61.6%

	Number of Titles	% of Titles*
Fiction	18	4.3%
Brand New	2	.5%
Genealogy	5	1.2%
Juvenile	1	.2%
Not available, but held at Richland County Public Library	47	11.3%
Not available, but held in State (other than SCSL, USC, RCPL)	61	14.7%
Not available in State (Not held by any SC OCLC Library)	122	29.24%

*Percentage based on figure of 414 rather than 563

In Section III, the decision was made to single out the Richland County Public Library in order to get an indication of the percentage of "not available" titles which might be held by a large in-state public library. Since the Richland County Public Library has virtually completed the retrospective conversion of its book collection into the OCLC data base, it appeared the logical choice. One of the major concerns at the State Library is that neither the State Library nor the USC book collections contain items which are recommended solely for public library purchase. There is a strong possibility that many items which have been declared "not available" are items which may have been recommended originally for public library purchase and have subsequently been weeded from smaller libraries or were never purchased due to budget constraints.

In analyzing the findings of this study, it is highly unlikely much action could have been taken to reduce the "not available" status of books which could not be verified on OCLC. Likewise, titles which were declared "not available" but were owned by the State Library or the University of South Carolina probably would not be available in other libraries. Usually these titles are non-circulating due to their reference nature, fragile condition, or status as a rare item. Other titles falling into this category are books which are in the Browsing Collection (due to their popular nature) at the University of South Carolina and books in circulation at USC. The State Library does not place reserves on USC books in circulation; however, the fact that the book is in circulation indicates that it may not be available for the same reason in another library.

In Section III, by excluding genealogy which normally does not circulate in most libraries and items which are recently released, there are 127 titles, or 34.5%, which are available in South Carolina OCLC member libraries other than the State Library or USC. This figure indicates library networking may have potential for increased interlibrary loan activity among all South Carolina libraries. As more and more libraries enter their holdings into databases which are accessible to a variety of libraries, many libraries which have traditionally only borrowed titles on interlibrary loan may find themselves becoming lenders.

While this is a preliminary study, it does indicate areas in which interlibrary loan activity might be affected by the emerging South Carolina Library Network as well as the need for the development of protocols governing interlibrary loan activity within the state. Further study and analysis will have to be performed, but whatever the outcome, the quality of interlibrary loan service in the state should be enhanced.

REFERENCE WORKSHOP HELD AT USC

The South Carolina State Library, in cooperation with the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science, sponsored a basic reference workshop for public library staff members on May 27-June 2. Twenty-three staff members representing sixteen public library systems attended the seminar at USC which covered basic reference sources, with emphasis on public service and the reference interview. Dr. Dan Barron conducted the program. Costs of the participants' tuition and housing were financed by Library Services and Construction Act funds.

OCLC PROGRAM DIRECTOR VISITS SOUTH CAROLINA

On her visit to South Carolina in early May, Jeanne Isacco, OCLC Program Director for State and Public Libraries and member of the Depository Library Council, made presentations in Columbia and toured public libraries in Greenville, Greenwood, and York counties. On May 7, Ms. Isacco consulted with staff members at the South Carolina State Library about OCLC. She later discussed distribution of federal documents and the issue of access to government information contained in computerized data base at the University of South Carolina College of Library and Information Science.

LSCA EXTENSION RECEIVES COMMITTEE APPROVAL

On May 2, the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee approved S.2490, a 5-year reauthorization of the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA), on a 17-1 vote. Those voting in support of the bill included South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond.

LSCA REGULATIONS ISSUED

Revised final regulations for the Library Services and Construction Act (LSCA) were published in the March 30, 1984, Federal Register on pages 12932-12939. The final regulations include a summary of comments and responses to the proposed regulations which were published over a year ago. The major change from the current regulations is that regulatory provisions relating to Title II, public library construction, and Title IV, older readers services, are removed. The omission of Title II regulations reflects the Administration position that LSCA should not be re-funded.

SENATORS ADDRESS FCC ON BEHALF OF LIBRARIES

In a letter addressed to FCC (Federal Communications Commission) Chairman Mark Fowler, Senator Larry Pressler (R-SD) and 26 Senate colleagues including South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond, requested the FCC to consider a library private line service. Under this service, carriers would furnish entities providing non-profit bibliographic services with unswitched point-to-point and multi-point service under the terms and conditions in effect September 30, 1983 with modest annual adjustments. In the letter dated May 8 it states, "We believe that without such a class of service, universal access to information through libraries is seriously jeopardized."

PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE DEVELOPS LIBRARY SOFTWARE

Presbyterian College has developed a library software program for use on a Apple II e microcomputer. The program is called CALM (Card and Label Manager). Capabilities of the program include production of catalog cards, printing of pocket and spine labels, editing, and unlimited tracings. The basic program, including 2 copies of CALM, a sample data disk, and instructions, costs $295. A demonstration disk which allows the creation of up to 10 different files of 10 items each is available for $15. The $15 can be credited towards the purchase price of the complete program. Sample cards and labels are available free of charge. For further information, contact: Speak Softly, Inc., 303 Calvert Avenue, Clinton, South Carolina 29325.

The Learning Resources Center at Horry-Georgetown Technical College, in cooperation with the Student Government Association, sponsored a book sale recently. Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase recreational reading and paperback best sellers for the library's collection.

RESULTS OF NATIONAL READING SURVEY

At a public program sponsored by the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress on April 11, the Book Industry Study Group released a summary of the results of a national survey of reading habits. A representative sample of the population was interviewed for the survey, which updates a similar study made in 1978. Some significant findings include: the percentage of adult book readers has remained constant, 56% today vs. 55% in 1978; book readers are reading more books - the proportion of "heavy readers" has risen from 18% to 35% of all book readers; book reading in the under 21 age group has dropped from 75% to 63%; and book reading declines as people grown older - only 39% of those surveyed over age 60 are book readers compared to 56% of the population as a whole. The complete study is scheduled for publication by the Book Industry Study Group this summer.

LITERACY ORGANIZATION SEEKS INFORMATION

The Business Council for Effective Literacy, Inc., 1221 Avenue of the Americas, New York, New York 10020, is dedicated to developing greater corporate awareness of the functional illiteracy problem and encouraging corporate support of programs and planning in the field. The Council plans to issue a newsletter and develop literacy program profiles and pamphlets for the business community. Consequently, the Council needs to know about ongoing and new literacy programs. They would also like to be added to the mailing list for any local literacy newsletters or bulletins. Please send information and newsletters to Ms. Gail Spangenberg at the Council at the address listed above.

Public Library Notes

Charleston County: The library reports that its first staff training day held on April 27 was a successful one. Professor Ken Shelton made presentations on time management, planning, and dealing with the public. Various staff members contributed a buffet lunch and conducted workshops in the afternoon... As part of the "Piccolo Spoleto" celebration, the library is presenting a film series featuring movies produced by the MGM studio from May 26-June 9. "More Stars Than There Are in Heaven - the MGM Story" offered 13 feature films borrowed from the South Carolina State Library's film collection.

Colleton County: All proceeds from the local "Rice Festival" celebration are being donated to the building fund for renovation of the library. The project is scheduled to begin in July. Renovations will include enlarging the reference, children's, and book stack areas; improving lighting; providing restrooms, handicapped access, and a more secure space for rare books; and adding a conference room. Other contributions to the fund have included $40,000 from Mr. & Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley, $5,000 from the City of Walterboro, $20,800 from the Colleton County Council, $28,000 in state funds, and $100,000 in Library Services and Construction Act funds.

Dillon County: Groundbreaking ceremonies for a new library branch building in Lake View were held on May 7.

Marion County: The library sponsored a program featuring South Carolina author Elizabeth Verner Hamilton at the Marion Opera House on May 9.

Richland County: Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Northeast branch library were held on May 3. Featured speaker was Lt. Col. Charles F. Bolden, Jr., a NASA astronaut and native of Columbia. The new branch will be the largest in the county library system, containing approximately 15,000 square feet. Construction is scheduled to begin in the fall.

York County: The library sponsored a program on "Proving Your Worth: Options for the Future for Young Black Americans" on April 30. Mrs. Lee Adams Taylor spoke on "Proving Your Worth," followed by talks by representatives from industry, small business, and York Technical College.

DRAFT PAPER ON PUBLIC LIBRARY STANDARDS ISSUED

The spring, 1984 issue of Public Libraries, the official journal of the Public Library Association (PLA), contains a working draft of a paper being developed by the PLA New Standards Task Force (see pages 13-15). The preliminary paper is intended to "outline possible parameters of new qualitative and quantitative standards for public libraries; to address the identification of research necessary to produce valid standards." The Task Force has proposed a package approach to the formulation of standards which is currently being referred to as the "Public Library Development Program." The four components of the program as described in the article are: planning, role setting, measurement, and national data collection.

The Task Force will be soliciting comments and input on their proposed recommendations at an open hearing to be held during the ALA conference in Dallas on June 26 from 2-4 p.m. Written comments may be mailed to: Karen Kruger, Task Force Chair, c/o South Central Library System, 201 West Mifflin Street, Madison, Wisconsin 53703. For a copy of the Standards Task Force report as published in Public Libraries, contact the Interlibrary Loan Department at the South Carolina State Library.

Periodicals List Published

The South Carolina State Library has recently issued the latest edition of its Periodical Holdings. The list, appearing for the first time in COM (computer output microfiche) format, is an alphabetical compilation showing inclusion dates of the 2,229 periodical titles in the State Library collection. In addition to the two microfiche, a user guide in paper format is included. The list was compiled by the University of South Carolina School of Medicine Library staff using software developed for them by the University of South Carolina School of Medicine Data Center and the USC Computer Center. The list is being distributed to public, academic, and special libraries in South Carolina.

The periodicals list should be especially useful to public libraries in performing their subject searches. If staff members can locate articles in journals already owned by the State Library, these articles can be rapidly supplied through the State Library's Interlibrary Loan Service. Public library staff should note that requests for articles and journals not included in the list should also be submitted to the State Library's Interlibrary Loan Service. Many journals are available at the University of South Carolina. The State Library will also provide locations for those journals not available in the Columbia area if requested.

Statistical Abstract Published

The 1984 edition of the Statistical Abstract of the United States is now available for purchase. A paperbound copy (Stock no. 003-024-05839-I) sells for $19.00 and a clothbound copy is available for $23.00 (Stock no. 003-024-05840-5) from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

The Institute of Outdoor Drama has produced a list of outdoor theater productions scheduled for 1984 and a brochure about the Institute which may be ordered free of charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Institute of Outdoor Drama, 202 Graham Memorial 052 A, Chapel Hill, North Carolina 27514.

Focus on Children

What's Happening in Children's Services

Dillon County Library will have a medieval festival June 6 to open the DragonSummer Reading Program. The library will have a pre-school film program in June, films for older children in July, and story hours for elementary age children throughout June and July.

Children's coordinator Michael Leonard was named Best Employee of the Year by Charleston County Library. Mr. Leonard was Coordinator of the Piccolo Spoleto Children's Festival which was held on Saturday, May 26, in Marion Square outside the library. The Children's Festival theme was "Animals on Parade" and featured numerous performing artists from the Charleston area. A highlight was a Noah's Ark constructed by the Seabees at Charleston Naval Base. Throughout Spoleto Festival, the library will be offering special films, story times, storytelling, and puppet shows of "The Tale of Peter Rabbit" and "Beauty and the Beast".

A Paper Dragon for DragonSummer

Cricket magazine's January, 1984 issue features several dragon stories and articles. Included is a pattern (p. 23) for a paper dragon which could be used for an exhibit or puppet. Thanks to Jane McGregor of the Florence County Library for pointing this out.

Corn Island Storytelling Festival

The Corn Island Storytelling Festival will be held in Louisville, Kentucky on September 21-22, 1984. Storytellers will include Jackie Torrance, Pamela Vander Ploeg, and The Folktellers, Connie Regan and Barbara Freeman as well as local storytellers and storytelling troupes. The festival began in 1975; in 1983, attendance was 4,000. Highlights include a storytelling cruise and an evening ghost story session in Long Run Cemetery. For further information, contact Joy Pennington, Coordinator, Corn Island Storytelling Festival, 11905 Lilac Way, Middleton, Kentucky 40243.

Read and Roll is Rolling

Read and Roll is a promotional campaign that can join the forces of the American Library Association (ALA) with the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association (RSROA) in an effort to convince teens to exercise their brains at the local library and their bodies at the local roller skating rink. Read and Roll provides teens with incentive to check out library books as well as to visit the rinks through a reciprocal promotion program arranged between the library and the rink.

RSROA members received Read and Roll kits in April. You may wish to check with the local roller skating rinks to see if they are interested in participating in the program. Interested libraries can request a kit by contacting RSROA headquarters, P. O. Box 81846, Lincoln, Nebraska 68501. The kit includes an explanation of the program, a roller skating bibliography, sample press releases, and suggested activities.

PR Ideas

Promotional Material Sought by SELA

The Southeastern Library Association (SELA) Publicity Committee is currently inviting entries to be submitted for their Library Promotion Contest. Promotional items will be judged on their effectiveness in increasing interest and financial support for the library. The impact of the promotional effort is the primary element in the judging. Public relations professionals will serve as judges, and contest winners will be announced on October 19, 1984, during the SELA conference in Biloxi, Mississippi.

Only one item (radio spot, slide or video presentation, letter, brochure, flyer, poster, etc.) should be submitted, accompanied by a brief (1 page) statement describing the purpose, target audience, method of presentation, and results of the promotional item. Please supply name of library, library director, publicity staff, and return address. Entries should be mailed before August 1 to: Jean Cornn, SELA Contest, Hapeville Branch Library, 525 King Arnold Street, Hapeville, Georgia 30354.

Kodak Offers Free Material

The Eastman Kodak Company has free 16mm films and slide/tape programs available for loan. Program subjects deal primarily with photography and travel. For a copy of the 1983-84 catalog, "Your Programs from Kodak," write: Eastman Kodak Company, Photo Information, Department 841, Rochester, New York 14650.
